

Woodpeckers Topic Homework

Extreme Earth

Due Thursday 15th October

Choose 1 of the options below PLUS a free choice challenge. Think about how you can present your work creatively to a high standard and ensure your spelling, punctuation and grammar is accurate.

Extreme Earth Explorer: Choose a famous volcano or earthquake from anywhere in the world. Create a leaflet, mini-book, poster or presentation to teach us about it. Include a map, important facts and some fascinating information.

News Report: Create a newspaper front page or film a news report about a real or imaginary volcanic eruption or earthquake. Explain where it happened, what happened and how people were affected.

Poem: Write a poem about Volcanoes or Earthquakes. It can be any type of poem - acrostic, list, descriptive, shape etc. Research the type of poetry before you start writing. Present your work beautifully and include designs/ pictures if appropriate. Show that you have edited and improved your work by including drafts with your finished piece.

Poster: Design a poster advising the public how to stay safe during a volcanic eruption or earthquake. Think about key survival tips, use the internet to research guidance given in other countries and present your information creatively with illustrations.

Free choice challenge: This is your opportunity to be creative, however here are a few suggestions. You could design and make a meal for a mountain hike, create a board game to play with your friends, an earthquake-proof house with label explaining the different features, a 3D model of a volcano, a word search using our key vocabulary (found on your Knowledge Organisers).
